TO THE LABOR VOTERS.

A vote for Post is a blank cartridge. A rote for NICOLL is a solid shot. Why should nonest workingman waste his ammuni-

NICOLL is to Post as performance to promise. Nicoll has shown and will show no "quarter to public thieves." NICOLL has and will have "the same law for rich and poor." Why prefer an experiment to a cer-

A vote for Post is not needed by the Labor party. Its record will be made on GRORGE. But a vote for Post will help the Bosses, screen the Boodlers and defend the Machine. Shall laboring men assist their enemies?

A vote for Post is a vote in the air. A vote for FELLows is a vote in the mud. But a vote for Nicoll goes straight to the bull'seye of good government.

THE PARTY PETICH.

No truer words have been written in this nanvass than are these from the Times:

It is the men who vote their strict party ticket, ise it is the party ticket, without reference t the character of the candidate or to the conse ses of his election, to whom the "bosses are indebted for all the power for evil they possess

It is this worship of the party fetich-the habit of "standing by the party through thick and thin "-that gives to the supporters of FELLows their only hope. Will men who really desire decent poliics and honest government vote on their udgments or by a heedless habit? Do they think more of regularity than of right? Do they value a label more than a man Are they party serfs or free men?

To-morrow will tell. The man who votes against what he knows to be for the best public interest is unworthy of the suffrage. He deserves to be bossed, browbeaten and robbed,

TWO CONFESSIONS.

Col. FELLows confesses that he received $523 from Tweep on Feb. 1, 1871, the day after the disagreement of the first jury that tried the great Briber and Boodler. "I adment to be true." he says, in his published card.

Mr. Tween confessed to Gov. Robinson, in a written statement made in jail as the basis of an application for pardon, that he paid, among other items, " $500 to John, R. FELLOWS, July 11, 1871."

On Saturday Col. Fellows said the $523 was all the money he ever received of Tween. To different reporters he had before said that "Tween was an old friend of mine and had helped me out before." On Sunday Tweep's schedule showed another payment.

And now, voters, in the memorable language of the Boss : " What are you going to do about it ?"

If you want to serve notice upon all public officials NOT to be honest, NOT to serve the people, NOT to prosecute thieves, vote against NICOLL.

THEY OBJECT TO PACTS.

Of all the miserable twaddle that ever marked the defense of a bad cause the whine that Col. FELLows has been "abused." and is therefore entitled to sympathy, is the Boodlers in their efforts to do it.

Nothing but PACTS-proven or confessed truth-have been printed about Mr. FELLOWS in this canvass. We challenge his supporters to point to one false charge.

When the people's prosecutor of thieves is to be chosen, is it not proper to show that a candidate nominated in defiance of the people's will was the beneficiary of Boss Tween's bounty? When the prosecutor of gamblers is to be elected, may it not be shown that this candidate was a confessed gambler and "welcher?" When an office is to be filled demanding independence and honor of a high degree, is it not a duty to the public to show that this candidate does not pay his debts, not because of "poverty," but because of reckless living? Is character to be a tabooed subject in a political canvass? Out upon such false and sickly sentimentalism!

HE WOULD NOT "LET UP."

Mr. Nicola substantiates in his card, published this morning, the statement of Tue World that a notorious erony of corruptionists and shielder of thieves sent to him to "put off the trial of CLEARY," and promised a "political and journalistic services" as a bribe for betraying the people.

Mr. Nicoll's indignant refusal was couched in language more foreible than polite. Finding that Nicola could not be induced to "let up." or be sent to Hot Springs, the friends of the rich Boodler went to work to fix" the jury, and a disagreement followed. So much for "Bilk." And for this NICOLL was "knifed." Will the people confirm the assassination of an incorruptible servant?

A vote for Post is a vote thrown away and alf a vote for FELLOWS.

EVERY CITIZEN'S DUTY.

Let every friend of honest local government plan and prepare to-day to vote to-morrow.

The debt of New York is enormous; its tax rate is high; its government is shamefully lax and bad in many departments; the streets are in a disgraceful condition; boodlers boodle and bribers bribe; the bosses rule and the people suffer, CHIEFLY BECAUSE FORTY THOU-SAND CITIZENS DON'T TAKE THE TROUBLE TO Citizens who won't vote deserve to be mis governed and robbed. Let every registered voter cast a ballot to-morrow.

Break the power of Bossism by smiting the andidate of Power the Boss.

MAKE THE ANSWER EMPHATIO. JACOB SHARP will be at the telephone to-

Boodler KEENAN and his cronies in exile will watch anxiously at the wires in Montreal to-morrow.

The thirteen Boodle ex-Aldermen still under indictment will scan the bulletin boards with feverish anxiety to-morrow.

The FLYNNS and the Southes, the black. legs and the "welchers," the thieves of high and low degree, all the horde of criminals and semi-criminals will, in desperate hope, await the returns to-morrow.

Let the voice of New York be emphatic and decisive for the vindication of her law.

Labor men can show their strength by votes for GROBOR. Let them show their sincerity by votes for NICOLL.

THE CATHEDRAL PROJECT.

The purchase of a site for the $10,000,000 Episcopal Cathedral insures the active proseention of a project for an architectural pile that can be spoken of in the same breath with the Brooklyn Bridge and the Liberty Statue.

New York's business palaces are unequalled, but her public buildings are for the most part unworthy of her. Not only can

A city that is to be in the near future the metropolis of the world should set her standard high in all things. The cathedral project is a step in the right direction. Let us show the Europeans that we can surpass them even in the cathedral line.

A RELENTLESS DISSECTION.

Mr. Schunz never used his keen scalpel nore effectively than in his pitiless dissection of Mayor Hewitt's letter.

The Abram S. Hewitt of to-day must blush for very shame when put put face to face with the Abram S. Hewitt of the past. Mr. Schuz tells him plumply that "you have taken a step which in its evil effects threatens to outweigh all the good you have done or may do during the rest of your official term."

Ile that he had never had any other money transaction with the biggest thief of the century, and finally his "welching" record, forced all four of the partisans into silence for a day. Then at first the young Republicans thought they won the laugh on the control of the century and interest thief of the century, and finally his "welching" record, forced all four of the partisans to outweigh all the good you have done or may do during the rest of your official term." may do during the rest of your official term." and the finding of bombs in the cell of want no doubt about their rebuke. Lange add two sensational features to the gloomy tragedy of Anarchism now drawing to its close in Chicago.

Both of these incidents show an unaccountable carelessness on the part of the jail authorities. The most matter-of-fact precautions should have rendered either occurrence utterly impossible.

ENGEL's attempted suicide has no significance other than that the Anarchists have given up all hope of escape from the gallows. The discovery of bombs in Lingo's possession has turned whatever popular sympathy existed into a demand for the rigorous enforcement of the law.

Mr. Nicoll's point blank affirmation that Bilk Dorshermen tried to induce him to "put off the trial of Cleary," shows that the Herald knew what it was writing about when it said of Mr. NICOLL :

He refused to yield to innumerable solicitation to "let up" on the Aldermen of 1884, but pushed their cases until they had to clear out to Canada or go to Sing Sing. Therefore he is to be laid on

And the Herald is boosting the Bosses and

If the honest workingmen want to smash Bossism, Boodleism and Ring Rule; if they want to hit hard at Fellows, Power and Hewitt; if they want to protest against Tweedism, Inequality, Injustice and Corruption, they will vote straight for NICOLL. If they want to throw away their votes they will vote for Post.

THE WORLD is always first to print the neios. An extra of The Evening World, announcing that Anarchist ENGEL had taken poison, was for sale on the street to-day at 12.25. No other evening paper was in sight.

By the way, if Mr. Nicoll's name should happen to appear on an independent ticket he would get a vote that would let daylight into the minds of some of these " politicians."-New York Herald before its Flop.

THOMAS SHEILS, one of the indicted Boodle ex-Aldermen, very appropriately spoke for Fellows at a "ratification meeting" on Saturday night. They are all for Fellows.

A poverty of purse may sometimes be creditable. But a poverty of character, NICOLL is loved for his enemies and FELlows distrusted on account of his friends.

Shall NICOLL be slaughtered to make a holiday for public thieves ?

TORNICOLL city. Of course com-ments differ as men differ. But all agree that the revelations made about Col. Fellows render it utterly impossible for honest men-men not led by any party string and not to be corralled by the snap of a party whip-to vote for the candidate forced upon the United Democracy by Boss Power and the Police Justices' ring.

"How can I vote for him, I, a Democrat, who voted for Benjamin K. Phelps in 1872 because the Democratic ring, of which Col. Fellows was a member, had refused to heed the demand of the people to bring Tweed and his ringsters to justice?" said one gentleman, "Why, it is shown, and Col. Fellows admits, that Tweed was then his friend, and helped him out with his money! Is that the reason why, in spite of the facts uncarthed in 1872 by the District-Attorney's office in which he was employed, Col. Fellows delivered countless eloquent speeches in Tweed's defense, insisting that he was an in-Tweed's defense, insisting that he was an innocent and wronged man, when he must have known otherwise? If so, in view of the fact that Tom Cleary's proxy voted in the so-called convention for his nomination, thus showing Tom Cleary's "friendship" for him, what guarantee have we that Col. Fellows will not extend his defending hand to have to pay my month's rent in advance, but Fellows lets people take out judgments. If I did that I would lose my job, you bet! I couldn't be elected to anything. I don't believe a street-car driver or conductor in the city will vote for him.

Inin. In the flat house at Third avenue and Twenty-seventh street are four young men, equally divided in politics. The Republicans are of the strictest party stripe and declared that they would vote for Post, while the Democrats derided them for in this manner only half syrressing their correction. the Democrats decided them for in this man-ner only half expressing their opposition to the idea of taking a candidate from the op-posing party, suggesting that Col. Fellows should be elected by a majority which would effectually rebuke the Republicans. In taking up Democratic Nicoll. That was a week ago. But the exposure of Fellows's relations with Tweed, his written lie that he had never had any other money transaction with the burgest thief of rebuke to Fellows and the County Democracy Tammany men, whose memory of Col. Fellows's ever ready, pursuing and gratuitus.

Fellows's ever ready, pursuing and gratuitous abuse and vilification of John Kelly has abuse and vilification of John Kelly has been revived by reprints of his speeches, are not very hot in his behalf, to say the least; and thousands of Mr. Kelly's admirers will not be bound by the policy which caused Tammany's leaders to swallow that fearfully stale bit of crow, John Fellows, which the always insolent and insulting "Counties" forced upon them. They will come to the polls with their ballots in their vest pockets, and these will bear the name of the young man who has achieved all his prominence through his brilliant prosecution of Jachne, McQuade, O'Neil and Sharp in the place of the name of the man who received $500 from Tweed while his office was indicting the arch robber, and als office was indicting the arch robber, and $523 more just after a jury had disagreed.

There are a host of dealers in jewelry, furniture, wines and other creature comforts who will place a De Lancey Nicoll paster over the name of John R. Fellows who through twenty years in New York during which he has drawn a big salary fron the city, has lived from $1,000 to $5,000 be youd his income at the expense of confiding

There are a host of other people who have no relish for men who, as receivers of the properties of widows and orphans, manage in some way to lose the property. They will vote for De Lancey Nicoll, whose character they have found to be so upright and honest that his opponents have been unable to point out to them a single short-coming, except and only that Mr. Nicoll likes his trousers to fit him, and profers lawn-tennis to draw poker.

Even the men about town who play draw poker have "soured" on Col. Fellows since the exposure of his character as a "welcher," in which he repudiated a debt of $510 incurred to a friend who kindly permitted him to play his promise to pay, There are a host of other people who have permitted him to play his promise to pay, as if it were money, in order that he might stay in the game. They are disgusted, and they, too, will vote for Nicoll in preference, and are now offering odds of $100 to $80 that and are now offering odds of $100 to $80 that Nicoll will win to-morrow.

It is no sin to be poor. But when a man continues year after year to accumulate adverse judgments and live beyond a large salary it is considered evidence that there is something rotten in the State of Denmark. Col. Fellows, as Assistant District-Attorney under several administrations, drew $7,500 a year—rather more than average professional men can make—yet he has "hung up" the grocer, the baker and the administrations, drew $7,000 a year—rather more than average professional men can make—yet he has "hung up" the grocer, the baker and the candlestick-maker till judgments amounting to about $15,000 have been filed against him. And these were not usually for necessaries. They were for jewelry, wines, and bills at hig hotels &c.

They were for Jewesses, as big hotels, &c.
Criminals will vote for Fellows because, as Criminals will says, he tempers justice with steal no Fatty Walsh says, he tempers justice with mercy, and sends them home to steal no more. At least he is on record as having obtained pardons for convicts and discharges for shoplifters.

Cornelius N. Bliss, the well-known drygoods merchant and chairman of the Republican State Committee, said: "I have been all over the city and have seen and conversed with political leaders and business men, and I feel confident that De Lancey Nicoll will be elected. I cannot see how it is possible to defeat him."

"Mr. Nicoll will have a substantial majority, in my opinion," Police Commissioner McClave remarked.

Alderman James A. Cowie said: "Nicoll will receive the full Republican vote, and his election is a foregone conclusion."

Ex-Alderman Morris said: "I have not met a Republican of any prominence who is not yielding De Lancey Nicoll an enthusiastic support."

Mr. Schuyler said: "We are receiving the most cheering reports to-day from every section of the city. Col. Fellows, the machines and the bosses will be buried by an avalanche of popular indignation. There has been a wonderful change in the betting. It was $100 to $70 on Fellows Friday night, $100 to $60 on Saturday, $100 to $70 yesterday, and to-day it is even up. To-night it will probably be $100 to $90 on Nicoll. To-morrow at 4 r. M., when the polls are closed and when the politicians know that the Labor party has east over 50,000 votes, the betting on Nicoll will be 2 to 1. I do not believe that Fellows, trading or no trading, can get the votes of 5,000 Republicans in this county. # The Riot at Pattersonville, La.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
PATTERSONVILLE, La., Nov. 7. — The true story of the riot which occurred Saturday seems to be as follows: Between 4 and 5 o'clock the Attakopas follows: Between 4 and 5 o'clock the Attakopas Rangers, under command of Capt, Cade, torether with a posse of citizens, partly of this neighborhood and partly from Franklin, moved on the town. At the entrance they found a crowd of from fifty to one hunhred excited negroes assembled, The crowd was ordered to disperse, and some of them felt, while others remained and assumed a defiant attitude. One negro of notrious character threw his hand behind him as if to draw a pistol, and then a regular fusitade was opened upon the negroes by the Sheriffs' posse which accompanied the troops, and four of them were soot dead.

What we want in the office of District-Attorne some such man as Mr. Nicoll, who is not afraid of boodlers, and who will give them no quarter if you don't want that kind of a man, all the worse for you, but he may be nominated and elected new ertheless. - New York Heraid before its Flop.

RATS AT WALLACK'S.

They Eat Up Capt. Hawtree's Boots and Carry Off Osmond Tearle's Cosmetic.

JUST before the curtain was rung up on "Caste" at Wallack's, a few evenings ago, Mr. E. D. Ward appeared before Stage Manager Robertson. holding in his hands a pair of Capt. Hawtree's patent leather boots. "Look at 'em," he said, with emotion. They're done for."

Manager Robertson

上品种名 agreed with him perfectly. It was apparent to any one that rats had been dining sumptuously on the boots, and that they were eternally ruined. Mr. Ward went back to his gressing room, but was not gone long.

"Look at that," he said, on his return, in husky tones, pointing to his beautiful cavalry sword. The gold cord at the scabbard rings was gnawed through. "Send out for some more traps," said Manager Robertson. "These rats have got

Manager Robertson. "These rats have got to go."

Where's my cosmetic?" called out Osmond Tearle a few minutes later.

"I'm sure I don't know," mournfully answered the stage manager. "I'll get Mr. Flannery to look for it.

Master of Costumes Flannery found the cosmetic near a rat hole in a corner, and Mr. Tearle finished making up.

The rats have become very bold at Wallack's during the past fortnight and fourteen guillotine traps are now in use. A night or guillotine traps are now in use. A night or two ago thirty rats were captured, but there does not seem to be any diminution of them. Rose Coghlan has a national reputation for being afraid of rats and mice, but fortunately being afraid of rats and mice, but fortunately for her the jiests seem to devote themselves solely to the actors' dressing rooms which are on the third floor above the stage.

How, the rodents got at Mr. Ward's boots has puzzled the company, for the boots were suspended from a hook on the wall. Mr. Robertson reasons that the rats climbed on the dressing burgesy theore walked up, the the dressing bureau, thence walked up the legs of a pair of trousers, crossed from them on a coat, and thus triumphantly reached the

That these rats are up to snuff is very plain, for after one rat was caught in the jaws of the trap last week two of his friends came around and peacefully ate up the cheese with which the trap was baited. It has caused much surprise that a building so new as Wallack's Theatre should contain so many rats to the square inch.

AN EX-CONVICT'S CANVASS. Joe Murphy Working the Gambling Hells for Col. Fellows.

An interesting and instructive illustration of the methods employed by the boodle bosses in furthering the interests of Col. Fellows is furnished in the case of Joe Murphy, an ex-convict and saloon-keeper at 101 West Twenty-seventh street, who has just served a term of two and a half years for grand larceny. Murphy was appointed Inspector larceny. Murphy was appointed Inspector of Election some time ago through Police Justice Ford, who bosses the district, but on Friday last he was withdrawn because it was thought that his services might be more valuable in working the Fellows boom.

He is now working outside, and his services consist in visiting the various saloons and gambling places, and there are plenty of them in the Nineteenth Precinct, and promising the proprietors that if they will use their influence in favor of Fellows it will be all right, and that he is authorized to make this promise by the insiders.

This is the precinct of Capt. Reilly, who, as is well known, is also working for Fellows.

Murphy came into public prominence several years years ago by a dastardly assault which he made upon a bootblack, setting two bull-dogs upon him and smashing his head with a billiard cue.

During the fortnight when the Cleary case was awaiting trial, William Dorsheimer, the editor of the paper in question, sent a gentleman to me whom I greatly respect. He has if I would do as he requested I could command his political and journalistic services on any occasion when I might need them. # FOUNDERED IN A HURRICANE

THRILLING EXPERIENCE OF THE CREW OF THE AMERICAN BRIG OSSEO.

Their Vessel Wrecked at Sea, the Men Give Themselves Up for Lost-A Sailor Tries to Jump Overboard From Despair-Thirty. Six Hours in a Hurricane-Rescued Just in Time by the German Ship Camella.

The German ship Camelia arrived at Tompkinsville this morning bringing in the crew of the American brig Osseo, which met with a hurricane last Tuesday night and foundered. The Osseo, in command of John Stevens, and a crew of eight men left this port on Saturday, Oct. 3, with a cargo of general merchandise consigned to Gordon, Grant & Co., Port of Spain, Trinidad.

On the following Tuesday, while in latitude 86 and longitude 71, a hurricane was encountered which lasted for more than thirty-six hours. The Osseo withstood the hurricane until late Tuesday, when a heavy northeaster struck her and broke the mainmast twenty feet from the deck. The seams in the forward part of the vessel opened and the water rushed into her hold. Then a great wave struck her which washed everything off the deck and carried two of the sailors with it. Another wave carried them back on the vessel, and they clung to the rigging, when they were rescued by their shipmates.

At midnight on Tuesday another heavy wind from the northeast struck the vesse and carried away the jib-boom, bowsprit and part of the foremast. The crew were at work at the pumps trying to get the water out of the hold, but with little result, as the water poured in quicker than it was pumped out. Seeing that the pumps were of no avail, the captain stopped the pumps and hoisted a signal of distress on the remaining mast.

Early on Wednesday morning another heavy wind struck the vessel and carried away both of the small boats, leaving the crew alone on the deck of their vessel, which was rapidly filling with water and liable to include the state of the surface of t sink at any moment at the mercy of the hur-ricane. The vessel was tossed on the ocean by every wave, answering to the rudder until about 2 p. M. Wednesday, when a sailor sighted a sail far away on the ocean, which was passing. The crew of the sinking vessel signalled and awaited patiently. It was at first thought that the signals were not seen on the passing sailing vessel, and one of the seaman became so discouraged that he attempted to jump into the sea, but was restrained by the rest of the crew. Luckily restrained by the rest of the crew. Luckily the crew of the passing vessel saw the signals and answered them. When the vessel got near enough, she tried to put about to the rescue of the sinking brig's crew, but the boat was tossed high in the air by the waves and filled with water. It sank at once. The occupants of the boat barely escaped with their lives.

A second attempt was made, and it proved successful. The boat made its way to the Osseo and took off the crew. The ship was found to be the German ship Camelia bound to this port. The injuries of the mates and the several seamen were attended to, and the Camelia kept on her course. Late Wednesday night the Osseo was seen to sink. The effects of the captain and the crew went down with her, nothing was seen to sink. The effects of the captain and the crew went down with her, nothing being saved but the clothes that they wore.

The shipwrecked crew came from Tompkinsville to this city this morning, where the agents of the Osseo, John Swan & Co., of 66 South street, took charge of them. Capt. Stevens is very thankful to the captain of the Camelia and says that all hands would have been drowned had it not been for him.
